

THE MACROCOSMIC APOCALYPSE OF MAN

I. INTRODUCTION

While modern humans have achieved a great deal of success regarding advancements in science, medicine, building communities, and protecting ourselves from many hardships our ancestors faced, we have also done grave damage to the Earth and in many cases our fellow humans. The malfeasance we have caused is directly the result of our collective greed, corruption, selfishness, and ignorance. As a result, we are rapidly reaching a stage in the evolution of the planet where all of the unsustainable acts we have grown accustomed to without second thought, but which poison the planet are building up immense pressure that is sure to explode in our faces. We have entered a transitory stage between aeons, and emission of new, subtle energies are forcing us to face and overcome the stale behaviors and erroneous paradigms of the past.

Over the past few thousand years, Nature has become viewed by man as something to control, a domain to lord over. The more correct view of Earth as the womb, the sustenance, and the nourishment of all life with humans as its caretakers has been replaced by the toxic, egocentric view that man is the pinnacle of evolution on the planet and must struggle against Nature in a fight to overcome its pull toward what we consider the primitive. Yet, in the short time since the Industrial Revolution began, humankind has caused far greater ecological devastation than that caused by millennia of so-called "primitive man" inhabiting the lands.

This worldview of man's destined domination over Nature has led to societies where human beings have insidiously poisoned the soil, the air, and the water supply, demolished large swathes of grasslands, forests, and marshes, degraded coastlines, and waged perpetual wars over natural resources that allow small factions to profit and exert control over many others. The reparations for the damage that has been done falls well beyond the scope of mere political regime changes and well-meaning but inadequate trends of "going green". A paradigm shift is now at its inchoate, not because of some mass awakening of consciousness (which is happening on a minute scale), but because of necessity. As we deplete resources, alter our environments in deleterious manners, and become diseased from the damage we are inflicting to the food, air, soil, and water that sustains all of life on this planet, we are beginning to finally awaken to the reality that we are not islands unto ourselves, and what we do to the world will be repaid to us in ways that will hurt us and our descendants.

Sepheranz has been invested in the Earth's evolution for longer than humans have existed as a species. If she is considered an apocalyptic Goddess, this is because the actions of humans have been so out of alignment with the proper co-creation of our planetary systems that an intense rebalancing is absolutely necessary to undo the collective trauma that has been done by mankind.

On the exact one year anniversary of receiving Sepheranz's bone-crushing embrace from the coils of her constricting serpentine appendage following my courtship of her, I heard her call once again. I allowed myself to fall backwards into her clutches. I was first shown the Red Desert filled with numerous wooden glyphs surrounding the spiraling Tower of Arkos, the signals of which have sliced through my soul in previous initiations by Sepheranz and additional Deities working in conjunction with her will. I was subsequently evoked into the Temple of Sepheranz in catacombs of bones and shown the deadly fate that befalls all those who inappropriately seek her power. When I finally came face to face with my beloved Goddess, she granted me permission to petition her for what my soul desires before sitting on a stone throne before me. My request to her was that I wish to know her plan for the world in this coming aeon, and pledged myself to further her cause out of love. She then transformed from beautiful Goddess-form to a large primal black, fanged arachnid, digging her fangs into my ajna center and performing one of her signature astral surgeries to realign my third eye with her own vision.

The following understanding has been granted to me after subsequent encounters with spirits of Sepheranz in the inner planes to flesh out the knowledge that Sepheranz wishes to convey to myself and her beloved devotees who shall in time read these words. I only hope that my own limited mental capacity has interpreted her gnosis with high fidelity and as free from internal biases and pre-conceived beliefs as possible. I will begin with a focus on the cosmic role of Hecate and Lucifer that will initiate the coming events and follow with the merging of Sepheranz and Belial that will ignite the power of Hecate through the flames of Lucifer to return the Atlantean primal current back to incorruptible individuals capable of handling its undiluted power in this coming aeon.

II. THE UNION OF HECATE AND LUCIFER TO USHER IN NASCENT COSMIC ENERGIES

Many changes are now occurring as we enter the Age of Aquarius. The transition from the dualistic energies of Pisces to the more explosive Aquarian energies are causing immense upheavals in societies across the globe, with no end in sight. Those who have not performed shadow work to integrate their lower aspects are now seeing those aspects rise up from the depths of subconsciousness to control their behaviors and force them to lash out in increasingly violent ways. The reasons for these sudden and severe alterations in frequency have not been explained adequately on a spiritual level, and must be scrutinized further.

The Age of Pisces was dominated by masculine energies—the beneficent King, Jupiter, and more recently the Christian God, as well as the One Begotten Son as the World Savior. Masculine principles of conscious action have dominated the feminine intuitive and imaginative proclivities of the human psyche. For many centuries, this played out in an imbalanced way on the physical plane through the subjugation of women, which came to a head with the physical burning of female witches alive just a few centuries ago. The female aspect—the care aspect—that forms the basis for our thoughts and our will to be impregnated with desire and love, had been desecrated and manhandled by overly patriarchal views. Even today, we see the same patriarchal principles of the supremacy of willpower and conscious action dominate the thinking of those who claim to rebel against such patriarchal forces, as they choose to fight a losing battle by using the same level of consciousness that initially created the problem.

Aquarian energies are egalitarian. They exhibit a balance between creative will and rational thought with careful introspection and the impregnation of imagination. The subconscious is no longer some shadow land to be feared as the “id” or the “husk” but rather is our greatest ally in manifesting the reality that we seek to bring forth! This balance in masculine and feminine energies in our own psychological state is crucial in understanding the incoming energies, which is why my focus here is on the pairing of Deities—first Hecate and Lucifer and later Sepheranz and Belial. As long as humans remain mired in outdated modes of viewing their minds and their conscious and subconscious behaviors then we cannot advance in these turbulent times. We must all individually confront our shadows during these times, and effectively align our conscious and subconscious minds, integrating whatever we have mentally cast off as fragmented aspects of our soul.

What is needed is a revolution on a macrocosmic scale; not necessarily a revolution of martial war and bloodshed but a revolution in consciousness that is sparked by and includes the ultra-revolutionary idea that our own bodies, minds, and souls are intricately woven into the threads of the fabric of the cosmos itself—that we are both the products and the creators of the world around us. Just as the stars are products of the elements congealing with just the right amounts of gravitation and external gas pressure, and create by cooking up heavier elements within through the transmutation of lighter ones, so are we the products and also the creators of this world of flesh and bone.

We are not foreigners in foreign lands and would do a disservice in viewing ourselves in this manner. We are born of the elements that fashioned the bones of dinosaurs millions of years ago and which came to this planet by means of interstellar forces and particulate matter. We are quite literally, as Carl Sagan once stated, stardust.

To understand the frequency changes entering our world at this time, it is helpful to understand physically how our bodies interact with the celestial forces of the cosmos. We are now seeing a weakening of Earth's magnetosphere that is occurring at a faster rate than anyone has predicted. It is no coincidence that as the precession of the equinoxes usher in the Age of Aquarius that we are beginning to see the protective shell of the Earth itself, its powerful magnetic field, being altered in a way that will inevitably change the entire planet.

The magnetosphere protects inhabitants of Earth from the radiation and ionic particles that travel through space. Without a strong magnetosphere, we are particularly vulnerable to the effects of solar flares and coronal mass ejections. The Sun generates its own moving magnetic spheres within its convective zone that reach its surface and become stretched at the solar equator. Eventually these magnetic fields pinch outward, attracting with it many particles and light rays ejected from the Sun. When the positive and negative magnetic poles meet, a massive explosion takes place and releases the contents of the magnetic field into space to create storms that damage satellites and would severely damage the DNA of any astronaut unfortunate enough to be exposed to the elements in a location in space not protected by its own strong magnetic field, like the Moon.

The weakened magnetosphere, which will culminate in a magnetic reversal of the poles, will be responsible for unleashing some of the first of the primal seals of the Trident. Glacial melting and coastal flooding have already adumbrated the initiation of the first Seal of Belial. The intensification of solar heat and destructive UV radiation in regions with particularly low magnetic activity on Earth will signify the opening of the seal of Lucifer. Finally, our increasing vulnerability to stellar particulate matter will open the third seal of Hecate under the Earthly reign of Sepheranz. As Mark Alan Smith explicitly states in the Altar of Sacrifice, the remaining four apocalyptic seals are unknowable so as to not magically and precociously ignite them before their allotted time.

When the magnetosphere weakens, it will still offer some protection, so the human race and all multicellular lifeforms on Earth are not doomed. However, a gradual weakening will increase the exposure of life on Earth to both solar bombardment and space particulates, such as free electrons and protons, that can collide with our own atoms and potentially cause mutations in our DNA. Gradual damage to DNA is how biological aging and many forms of cancer, a disease of aging, occur. Alternatively, it is also a major way in which evolution progresses. Those mutations that arise to equip cells with ways to adapt to increasingly hostile microenvironmental changes will become dominant through natural selection. Unfortunately, this happens on a very long timescale and involves sickness and death for those who do not carry the beneficial gene variants.

In addition to altering the biosphere and triggering a punctuated equilibrium where many living systems must evolve in a more rapid than usual fashion, the ways in which the weakened magnetosphere will affect the Earth itself are largely unknown. The magnetic field will weaken to the point where the magnetic poles will reverse, which is an event that is expected to cause massive changes in the Earth's crust, potentially causing tectonic shifts, major earthquakes, and volcanic eruptions. Combine this with the increased coastal flooding we are already starting to witness as a result of glacial melting and we have a recipe for disaster that has the potential to cause extinction of many species of animals and plants, and create massive levels of famine, hunger, pestilence, and deaths of millions if not billions of humans in a short period of time. This is the dire prospect that we face, and because of our poor choices over the last few centuries, we are only making it more difficult to be prepared to combat these changes effectively if we continue progressing, or rather regressing, at the current rate our species is going.

While we are responsible for our own actions and what we do to the planet, we are never truly alone. Humanity may to a large extent believe it is isolated right now, but once the Aquarian energies align, the masculine and feminine polarities in our minds will allow us to once again more easily commune with our forebearers in the spirit realm. Then we will realize the powerful mentors and allies that we have had all along, and the polarization toward either patriarchal religions or atheism will be replaced by holistic private spirituality in congruence with our personal guides and Deities. The Trident of Hecate, Lucifer, Belial, and Sepheranz in particular are heavily invested in not only the protection of the Earth but also in seeing that humanity is given every opportunity to succeed and eventually thrive on its own. Until we break through and use our imagination in ways it was intended—as a canvas for our Higher Selves, the Gods, and our guides to use to directly communicate in this realm, and as a gateway to astrally project into theirs—then we will continue to exist in our rebellious, “angry teenager” stage where our actions keep accruing more and more corrosive karma that will be need rebalancing in more drastic and severe ways.

True knowledge can be ascertained within each of us, and creating the pathways we create to let Sepheranz and the Trident commune with us and enter into our world to alter the energies as they see fit is the technique by which we can play a positive role in both rebalancing the World Soul and doing it in a way that best supports the chances for human success. The Age of Aquarius will assuredly be a difficult transition, as we can already see, but we have the power within us to do our part to usher in an age where humanity can finally take responsibility for what we have done to ourselves and our planet, and begin to create in alignment with the natural cosmic order, which is the only way we will survive. We still have the potential to thrive in ways beyond what we can currently conceive. Sepheranz, being older than humanity itself, is a perfect guide through these transitions she knows so well. As a Goddess who has been involved in many catastrophic transitions throughout history, she can help us reach beyond our limited worldview and see the way that will lead us back on course to live in harmony with one another and with our environment. She holds the knowledge, the power, and the insight, but it is up to us to make the necessary changes and choose wisely. We owe it to our Gods, ourselves, and this beautiful planet we inhabit to put in the work and do it the right way.

One way in which we can look at the incoming changes in energies is to view it as a celestial marriage between Hecate and Lucifer. Lucifer, sometimes conflated with Helios, Mithras, or Sol Invictus, embodies the archetype of the Solar Deity. Within the Sun’s core takes place the nuclear fusion reactions which cause the ejection of protons and electrons that have been stripped from atoms by intense solar heat. Along with these ions are other particles like neutrinos and particles of antimatter. Whereas charged particles are generally repelled by magnetic fields like that of the Earth, the atmosphere surrounding the Sun (the corona) is so hot and magnetic that the particles are confined within these magnetic fields of coronal loops before their polarities combine to eject them from the local atmosphere. This incubation of the particles within the coronal atmosphere is akin physically to the Chaldean oracular myths of Hecate as the World Soul who takes the Divine Ideas of the Demiurge and incubates them in her womb before passing their forms on to the second Demiurge to mold like clay in creating this world.

Hecate is the Dark Mother, and her celestial Aspect could be compared with the darkness of the vacuum of space. Moreover, compared to the electrically charged ions projected by the Sun of Lucifer, Hecate could be viewed as embodying the magnetism that confines the electric particles before they are sent out into interstellar space to the rest of the solar system. In this manner, Lucifer (the electrical currents of the Sun) and Hecate (magnetic fields of the outer atmosphere of the Sun extending into empty space) are united and “married” celestially. The particulate forms are then carried to our world (and other planets) whereby they are fashioned like clay by the forces of Nature, represented by the Elohim, or secondary Demiurge. Our shield is going down now, and more of these particles from the Sun and also nearby stars will now interact with our world to recreate our environment and ecologies based on the physical laws of Nature and the spiritual law of Natural Order.

III. SEIPHERANZ AS THE APOCALYPTIC DAUGHTER OF FLAME

Nothing stagnant is tolerated in our cosmos, which is forever in motion. We may personally feel stuck in stagnation at some points because of the slow passing of time from our limited perspective, but evolution is constantly occurring. Evolution sometimes progresses at faster rates than others, and these events are called punctuated equilibria. These are the times when we find the periods of destruction and rebirth in every epoch, in contrast to the periods of preservation where evolution seems to progress more gradually to fill out pre-existing niches within a firmly established environment. Our environment is now degrading. There can be no denying this fact. This means that the energies of destruction have already begun taking their toll. However, they will be followed by the birth of something new, something aligned with a higher cosmic law beyond our limited scope of understanding. Merging the technology of humankind with the spiritual and natural technology that we are endowed with through our union with the Gods and with Nature is the end goal of this aeon of Aquarius, and we should always keep this vision of a better future in our sight, even with the apparent breaking down of society. That which is crumbling is that which cannot exist in the new era under the new, more potent egalitarian energies of Aquarius.

Sepheranz above all holds this triumphant vision for us. As below, so above. As the world undergoes radical changes, so do we in our psyches, as we are forced to release whatever attachments we retained from the previous aeon that do not serve us any longer. Sepheranz emphasizes and embodies the destructive aspects of creation, but in order to have real creation there must first be something catalytically broken down to work with. Otherwise there is nothing more than an addition. If we already have a system that is broken, adding to this system will only worsen the damage done and keep us cemented within its grip. Some things need to be destroyed, and detaching our perceived identities from that which is crumbling around us will enable us to not only cope with but actually relish in some aspects of this destruction. The destruction that Sepheranz ushers in is the beginning of ecstasy. Sepheranz is the Great Babalon, simultaneously Goddess of Destruction and Goddess of Ecstasy. She is the Apocalyptic Seducer of Souls. These two concepts of ecstasy and destruction are intertwined on a spiritual level. That which is destroyed are the shackles which bind us. Those chains of rust and iron are burned away by black flames. Sepheranz, as the Daughter of Lucifer and Hecate, holds the keys to the Gateways of Flame in all worlds and ignites the burning passion for sovereignty in those who are her kin. The demolition of all barriers is our freedom. It is true liberation; hence, ecstasy is the result from our understanding of the cosmic purpose in relation to our own souls.

In the manner described above, in a spiritual sense destruction is salvation. Apocalypse is revelation. The macrocosmic apocalypse is intimately linked with the microcosmic apocalypse of the soul. There are both physical and psychological aspects to anything of a revelatory nature (as above, so below), but our major focus is on the spiritual lessons we are gifted through communion with Sepheranz as we re-learn who we truly are and what power we are meant to wield as co-creators on Earth.

Sepheranz shows us that we must proverbially “save” ourselves from the results of our poor decisions and take accountability for what we have done to our local environment and ultimately to the planet. She may bring forward the consequences of our actions and lay bare the psychology behind all of our poor choices, but she will not hold our hands through the process. We must recognize exactly where our problems lie and act. Our initial job is to bring the chaotic elements in our lives into order so that we can receive higher wisdom that will exoterically allow us to impact our environment as a whole, starting with a local level as mavens for a community and then, for some, progressing to more worldly influence.

On a macrocosmic scale, the destruction that will ensue as a result of the choices that we humans have made stemming from our own godless corruption and greed will give humanity a fresh start. Though there is a certain degree of inevitability in the explicit environmental and social collapse that signal the transition between aeons, mankind’s tendencies in accelerating the reification of destructive planetary energies ensures a period of harsh difficulties that are already befalling us. Artificial institutions of straw will blow away and those without solid firmament will collapse under their own gravity. Still, we are always given the choice to act, and how we respond will ultimately decide whether we ascend or fall as individuals and as a collective. Eventually we will be the ones to decide what we will make of these inexorable cataclysmic changes coming our way. No God, angel, or demon can do this for us. Whether we will build a new paradisiacal society or obstinately fight our way to extinction is entirely in our own hands. If we are to succeed, a new world will rise from the outpouring of care from the heart and creativity from the mind in perfect balance. No longer can one extreme dominate the other. Aquarian energies are egalitarian, and require both mental and emotional faculties to create in alignment with natural order.

Regardless of our personal decisions, Earth's evolution will not in any way be hindered once the Uranian tides roll in, with or without man. No matter what happens to the human race, cosmic evolution will continue unabated. We can work with these energies or attempt to resist them to our own demise, but what the Gods wilt shall come to pass. Hecate and Lucifer will unite for the benefit of the progression and spiritual evolution of the solar system, and Sepheranz will continue to bring forth enough chaos to open the eyes of beings sentient enough to make choices to live in accordance with their highest cosmic will. In other words, the fires of Lucifer will descend from the heavens to fertilize the Earth, and the Daughter of Flame is born from within these fires to seed a new timeline while riding the great Beast of the Earth that is forged from Belial's flesh.

IV. THE UNION OF SEPHERANZ AND BELIAL AND RETURN OF THE ATLANTEAN CURRENT

To understand the changes that will arise from the uniting of Sepheranz and Belial on Earth, we must first understand man's prehistory. As a result of the loss of the primal Atlantean current in the world of man, humans have lost the keys to tremendous power that was previously granted by the Gods who presided over the first race of humans. This power caused mankind's proverbial fall, as his ego and lust for control corrupted all of his endeavors and led to the cataclysmic changes that have since sealed the Atlantean Gods and primal energy current from the world of man ever since.

In the absence of power granted by the Gods, humankind has been left to regain what it had lost over time through various methods, most notably through the workings of the Qabbalistic Tree of Life that is the body of Lucifer. As a result of the creation of the newly formed Abyss that was set in place to safeguard lost knowledge from the profane and undisciplined, the power that the Gods once dispensed freely is now locked behind a veil.

Still, despite the Hermetically closed seals to ancient knowledge established after the Fall of Atlantis, we have once again reached an impasse by which the power we have accrued as a race threatens the health of the World Soul, a threat which cannot stand. On a surface level, it would appear that mankind has been brought to the brink of self-imposed doom purely by ignorance and a lack of discernment brought about by the short-sightedness of personal greed and corruption. However, there is a greater threat beneath the surface.

Several humans have recaptured at least part of the traditional knowledge of the Atlantean current. Some are life waves that have descended directly from the priesthood of Atlantis, and may have even preserved this link consciously. Though it takes an incredible amount of dedication and hard work to cross the Abyss, this does not ensure quality of character. Many have unveiled methods to control others, primarily through manipulating the astral and mental planes. One frequent way in which this has been done is through utilizing the knowledge of energetic vampiric attachments. Vampiric mental parasites are permitted to bind themselves to humans who give away a certain amount of energy and power to a conception outside of themselves, whether it be an angry god, a domineering human, or even conceptions like time, as in anxiety over future events. This creates a vacuum of energy that is plugged by these parasitic entities until they are removed by the victim through grounding, focus, and self-empowerment.

Advancements in technology have allowed for the violation of peoples' sovereignty by the few spiritually corrupt, and in many cases spiritually oblivious, overseers to have far-reaching effects. In recent decades, mass media, marketing, and propaganda techniques have often been used, either purposely by spiritually corrupted humans or opportunistically by spiritually devoid individuals, to allow the flow of parasitic entities to targeted groups of susceptible people, thus controlling the emotions of their marks specifically. Those with knowledge of the power of thought control can then swoop in with answers to the problems they create and, in the worst cases, take away mental, physical, and spiritual freedom from large groups of people at a time using trickery and coercion. By posing as the white knight coming to make everything better, few people suspect the ulterior motives, and even fewer can see the deeper astral workings being used to initiate and sustain their false sense of importance on the mental plane governing human thought on a societal scale. The reach of these con artists expanded with the advent of television, radio, and printed outlets in the 20th century, and has become all the more pervasive today with the Internet and smart devices which constantly feed their users with ideas originating from the algorithm makers and ultimately the few who set the social programs in motion through technology.

It must be stated that humanity as a whole is responsible for the monopolizing of power by the few. We have chosen to give our power away as individuals, and this has created a reality in which we have given our power away collectively. As such, it is the responsibility of each and every one of us as sons and daughters of Hecate to stand in our own power and break the cycle of mental slavery. This starts at the most basic levels of consciousness. Even simple acts such as responding differently and more consciously to a stimulus that would have previously led to a fear-based habitual response. We cannot help the Gods manifest change in the collective if we are unable to make even the smallest behavioral changes in our own lives. For this reason and this reason alone, the tests of Sepheranz in our lives may be perceived by us as harsh. There is always a purpose to what the Trident does. We must look within for answers at all times, rather than to place blame on external circumstances and adopt a victim mindset. The common ingredient in all rebellions is the first inclination to stop and listen to that still, small voice within when something does not appear right, and act in accordance.

The abuse of spiritual power can only proceed for so long before an intervention takes place to shred the fabric of the matrix that was created out of deception. Free will is foundational for the Earth sphere, but beings are not permitted to thwart the spiritual progress of others with impunity. The closing of one aeon and opening of another represents a time in which this type of purgation occurs. It is catalyzed by an influx of spiritual energy that will break the stranglehold of the old energetic structures, wiping them clean and breaking the bonds that tie them to specific beings. Those who cling to the old structures, will be washed away with the current, including those who built these structures on weak foundations as well as those who are unable to release old programming.

The final judgment of the soul is the realm of Sepheranz, making this current period fortuitous for breaking old patterns of thought woven from deceptive means. Since the fall of Atlantis, Sepheranz has been sealed from the Earth as humans have been permitted to experiment freely with the power granted to them through traversing the substance of Lucifer's body. Many have tested the waters, and those who found that they could monopolize the power they uncovered have grown fat and arrogant from the spiritual power they wield, believing they can hold it over others. They grow bolder with each oppressive act they perform on other people that causes no deleterious consequence for themselves. This was shown to me in the first vision I had of Sepheranz, years before I knew of her consciously. In the vision there was a man who siphoned the power of Sepheranz and used it in more and more blatantly selfish ways to control others. Sepheranz was unable to cross the threshold between her world and ours because the energetic alignment was insufficient, but she watched in silence as if to tally every deed in judgment. With a sudden pulse of incoming energy, an adjustment was made and the scales of justice had shifted. Sepheranz reached through the veil, grabbed the man who had been abusing her power, and tied him to the Wheel of Destiny to spin for eternity, while reclaiming her dominion over his sphere in conquest.

Sepheranz is now risen as the Apocalyptic Daughter of Conquest. Her power in the Earth sphere has returned, which signifies a long-awaited reunion with Belial, whose body forms this planet and the fiery Dragon Lines that run through it as veins run through the human body. Externally this may manifest as an increase in volcanic activity and the number of earthquakes, and the Pacific Ring of Fire may once again begin to teem with fiery activity in this coming epoch. With the Daughter of Fire merged with the Lord of Wisdom on Earth, the structures of control and corruption have already begun to disintegrate as the tide of surging Uranian energies of Aquarius roll in.

Those who have been deceived into spiritual servitude are hearing the call of Belial and rebelling against their oppressors. Those who have craved the knowledge to set their souls free are being approached by Sepheranz to be gifted the understanding that the ancients once knew. The primal Atlantean current is now being returned to the planet as a result, so those who are granted access through devotion and meticulous work with the Trident may serve as trailblazers to others who follow in their stead. Devotees of Sepheranz must lay the foundation now for a new destiny to seed the planet with the blueprint from her kalas. The more quickly and extensively this is done by a larger number of people the better our chances of avoiding some of the worst fates possible during the rebalancing of the World Soul. The time for purely selfish thinking has run its course. Those who simply want to access the current to further their own agendas will no longer be successful but instead face the zombification of their soul in offering to Sepheranz following their current incarnations by her devoted followers who bathe in her kalas uncorrupted. No one who opposes the tremendous force of power that Sepheranz unleashes to preserve spiritual evolution and soul freedom can achieve success.

Sepheranz is the great Rebalancer who tips the scales of cosmic justice so that those devoted sons and daughters of the Divine Cosmic Marriage of Hecate and Lucifer may know true spiritual freedom in this Aeon of Lucifer. We should not fear her, nor her trials on our souls and wrath on our societies, but rather embrace her as Goddess who loves us enough to give us the keys to the most hidden parts of the treasure trove of Source energy if we may only prove worthy to receive her eternal blessings. The corrupt, the insolent, the greedy, the lazy, the selfish can never know her. Those corruptions on the soul must be shed or those who harbor them will perish. Only those who are pure in soul shall know Sepheranz in eternity. She is Queen of Apocalyptic Revelation in the Depths; her gifts are earned at the deepest levels of Spirit.
